

Machining center for discontinued drives

New machining center for discontinued Yaskawa drives

We have recently started a new partnership with a machine manufacturer.

In order for us to continue to find repair solutions for discontinued Yaskawa drives and motors, a machining center has been made available to us.

The goal is to develop a test bed that can repair the specific drive series exclusively and on behalf of the manufacturer. With this machining center, we continue to expand our direct cooperation with machine manufacturers and help that the spare parts availability and production for the end customers can be further secured.
